

These Boston hotels have gone to the dogs — and the managers are thrilled

By Megan Johnson Globe Correspondent, October 25, 2019, 1:52 p.m.

Golden retrievers Bonnie (left) and Tara hung out in the front lobby of The Mandarin Oriental in Boston, as customers checked in behind them. The Mandarin Oriental is just one luxury hotel in the city to put furry friends “on staff.” JESSICA RINALDI/GLOBE STAFF

Cori, a 2-year-old black labrador, has joined the staff at the Fairmont Copley Plaza Hotel as the property’s official canine ambassador.

Cori is owned by concierge Joe Fallon, who previously cared for the hotel’s first

